1. Until the arrival of the Germans in 1941 this factory produced textiles, but after 1942 it was converted to the manufacture of precision goods and instruments. The old plant was removed and new and very up-to-date machinery was received from Germany. The factory was transformed into an "IGW" (Luft Geraete Werke) manufacturing goods for the aircraft industry, which are still being produced.
2. Products manufactured by Jugoceska are:
 - a. Projectors (presumably photographic)
 - b. Electric clocks
 - c. Wall clocks
 - d. Aircraft instrument dials
 - e. Electric drills
 - f. Bergmann tubing
 - g. Various types of machinery, tools and instruments for special uses.
3. The necessary materials for the production of the finished goods are received, semi-finished, from other factories within the country and consist of metal sheets, and assorted types of high grade metal castings, et cetera.
4. The Jugoceska factory is equipped with the latest types of drills, electric work benches, electric metal saws, saws for cutting special metals, metal scrapers et cetera. There is no foundry. There are approximately 1,100 persons employed in the factory, including about 50 technicians and engineers. The work is done in three shifts.
5. The daily production capacity of the factory amounts to two railroad car-loads a day of assorted goods. During the past three months these have consisted mainly of instrument dials for aircraft, electric clocks and various items of machinery for fitting to tanks and military vehicles.
